FIELD MARSHAL WILSON MURDERED---DR. WU TING-FANG DIES IN CANTON

FAMOUS SOLDIER SLAIN BY IRISH ZEALOTS AT HIS HOME IN LONDON

All England Saddened By News Of Assassination Of War Hero; House Of Commons Adjourns As Mark Of Respect; Newspapers Fear Reaction

DUBLIN DISMAYED BY NEWS OF CRIME

Act Of Murderers May Lead To Reprisals In Belfast, And In All Probability Will Widen Gap Between Contending Factions In Ireland

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 23.—This morning's editorial articles express universal horror and detestation at the murder yesterday of Sir Henry Wilson, coupled with the highest tributes to the deceased and the bravery of the policemen. They also express grave anxiety regarding the reaction in Ireland, where it is feared that the murder will tend to widen the chasm between North and South and evoke reprisals at Belfast. The crime has dismayed and depressed Dublin.

There seems to be good reason to believe that Sir Henry Wilson died with his sword in his hand, having drawn it when the first shot was fired. The weapon was found out of its scabbard.

The authorities are considering the advisability of arming the London police. The wounded men, contrary to a previous report, are all doing well.

The Chief of Staff of the Irish Republican Army regulars has denied that the murder of the Field-Marshal was the work of the I.R.A.

London, June 23.—Connolly and O'Brien were charged at Westminster Police Court this morning with the murder of Sir Henry Wilson. The case was remanded.

London, June 23.—Detectives in motor cars made a series of raids in suspected Sinn Fein quarters of London last night and seized quantities of firearms and bombs. There were no arrests.

Paris, June 23.—Marshal Foch, interviewed by Reuter's correspondent, expressed profound regret at the assassination of Sir Henry Wilson. He stated that he cherished the sincerest affection for his faithful and brilliant colleague of the war and of the post-war deliberations of experts.

The Marshal has telegraphed his sympathy with the late Field-Marshal's family. He will attend the funeral.

The President, M. Millerand, and the Premier, M. Poincare, have telegraphed their sympathy.

The assassination of Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson marks the untimely end of one who had distinguished himself particularly during the recent World War as one of Britain's greatest military leaders.

Field Marshal Wilson was born at Currygrane, Edgeworthstown, Ireland, on May 5, 1864, the son of James and Cecil Mary Wilson. He was educated at Marlborough College and the Staff College, and immediately upon his graduation entered the Royal Irish Regiment in 1884. Shortly afterwards, he was transferred to the Rifle Brigade. He served in the Burma campaign in 1885-87, being wounded, and during his two succeeding years of service in the same campaign was awarded decorations for bravery under fire.

In 1892-94, Field Marshal Wilson was attached to the Staff College, and during the succeeding three years served as a staff captain in the intelligence division. He was brigade-major of the second brigade at Aldershot from 1897 to 1899, and in the following year held a similar post with the Light Brigade in South Africa. He served throughout the South African campaigns and was four times mentioned in despatches.

At the beginning of the European War, Field Marshal Wilson held the rank of Lieutenant-General. Almost from the commencement of hostilities, he served as assistant chief of the general staff to Lord French. In 1918, he was appointed chief of the Imperial General Staff and a member of the war cabinet, but resigned in favor of Lord Cavan. He was made a field-marshal in 1919.

SOLONS FAVOR ELIMINATION OF LUNGHWA YAMEN

Organisations Here Want Defence Commissioner To Quit Office

Local organisations and the Kiangsu Provincial Assembly have joined in the general agitation against the continuance of the Defense Commissioner's Yamen at Lunghwa and its 7,000-odd troops. The Peking Government is expected to take some action to remove the office and disband the troops at an early date.

Wu Pei-fu, the Chihli victor; Admiral Tu Shih-kwei, Commander-in-chief of the Chinese Navy and the Kiangsu Tuchun are also among the agitators against the existence of the military bureau in Lunghwa.

Four resolutions were passed at an executive meeting held by representatives of important Shanghai societies on Wednesday night at a private residence. They decided to ask General Ho Feng-lin to relinquish his office as Defense Commissioner of Woosung and Shanghai voluntarily, to declare Shanghai and its vicinity as a district to be permanently immune from military activities and soldiery, to hold the Nantao and Chapei police authorities absolutely responsible for the maintenance of local peace and order and to hold the commanding officers responsible for the conduct of the troops before their disbandment.

The Kiangsu Assembly yesterday despatched the following telegram to President Li Yuan-hung and the Cabinet, suggesting the abolition of the local Yamen:

"At the last session of the Kiangsu Provincial Assembly, a resolution was introduced to abolish the Office of the Defense Commissioner at Shanghai in order to unify the military system in the province. Although discussion ensued, no progress was made on account of certain practical dimculties.

"Now the nation is unanimous in its cry against the tuchunate and the superfluous troops and Shanghai, the premier commercial port in China, is a city which leads in domestic as well as in diplomatic intercourse. The existance of such a Yamen is a disgrace to the nation.

"Moreover, this has been made a subject of controversy among military interests and is detrimental to the peace and order of the entire Southeast. It is imperative therefore that it should be abolished in order to eliminate the potential danger of Kiangsu and Chekiang and to set an example to other similar offices in the country."

Mr. Moh Hsiang-yao, a noted cotton merchant and member of several important organisations, left Wednesday for Peking to start his lobbying in the capital. Moh will also suggest the formation of a Volunteer Corps in Chinese territory to replace the troops.

Lunghwa is now an armed camp. The first and second regiments of the sixth mixed brigade and the 39th infantry are doing patrol duty. A soldier is stationed at a distance of every sixty feet. Machine-guns have been installed at street corners.

Woman Officer Faces Trial At Capital

MRS. Mina C. Van Winkle, only woman lieutenant on the Washington police force, must face trial in that city for alleged disobedience of orders. She is charged with conducting herself in a manner prejudicial to the good order and discipline of the department.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES AT ST. JOHN'S TODAY

University Will Confer Degrees Upon Graduates This Afternoon

Commencement day exercises and conferring of degrees at St. John's University will take place this afternoon. Tea will be served in the library at 4 p.m. The exercises follow at 5.

Commencement exercises for St. John's Middle School were held on Thursday afternoon.

In the English department 52 students received certificates, twelve were promoted to the college with one or two conditions. Forty-six completed the work of the Chinese department.

Of the graduating class, 59 students have indicated their intention of continuing their work in the college and three have decided to go to America for further study. It is interesting to note that a letter has been received from the University of Pennsylvania stating that graduates of the Middle School may enter that institution without examinations.

Announcement was made of the beginning of work on the new St. Mary's buildings so that there is a possibility of moving the Middle School to their old buildings in September, 1923. It is planned to erect a new classroom building and use the old St. Mary's buildings for dormitory. When this is done it will be possible to take in more students. For the entrance examination, 300 students have applied of whom only 65 can be admitted.

Hon. Hsu Hsuan, Commissioner of Foreign Affairs spoke on the necessity for specialised training if students are to help most in the reconstruction of China.

Dr. Waung Zung-ts, vice-chairman of the Kiangsu Educational Association recently named Minister of Education for China, emphasised the need for a new system of middle schools. He favored the six year school in place of the present division between higher primary and middle schools. He told of the need of preparing for various vocations as well as for college, since so many students do not continue their studies after graduation from the middle school. He ended with a strong appeal to the graduating class to do their work well and consider remuneration as secondary.

Rolls of honor were presented to 35 students for perfect attendance and good conduct. The athletic Cup was presented to the Third Class for its victories in interclass, track, football, tennis, and basketball.

The St. George's Cup, which carries with it a scholarship in the college for four years and which is the leading prize given by the school was awarded by a vote of the Faculty to Li Iok-yoong.

CHANG MAKES NEW DEMANDS; TRUCE ENDED TEMPORARILY

Fengtien Leader Wants Neutral Zone Established

WU'S MEN STAY

Chihli Troops Unwilling To Abandon Strong Position

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 23.—The execution of the terms of the armistice have come to a temporary halt owing to General Tso-lin's demand that the Chihli forces should retire as far as Liushowying, the Fengtien troops removing to an equal distance from the Great Wall, the area between becoming a neutral zone.

There is no indication of an actual crisis, but the Chihli forces who would have left the war zone today are remaining there, the Chihli leaders apparently not being willing to abandon their strong positions while there is any possibility of the armistice breaking down.

Peking, June 23.—Arrangements are proceeding for the official opening of the Shantung Conference at Peking on June 25, in connection with which Messrs. Debuchi and Omura and their staffs arrived from Tokio on June 21, while Dr. Akiyama, the Governor of Tsingtao, is expected this evening.

Peking, June 23.—According to Japanese reports, General Kao Shih-ping, General Lu Yung-kwei and four other leaders of the Pogranitchnaia outbreak were captured by Kirin forces after a fight in which the former's troops were heavily defeated. The six leaders were subsequently shot.

BRITAIN TO USE GOOD OFFICE IN HELPING CHINA

Will Do All Possible To Facilitate National Consolidation

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 23.—In the House of Commons yesterday at question time, Mr. Cecil Harmsworth said that the Government would lose no opportunity to use its good office to facilitate the progress of Chinese national consolidation so far as it could, consistently with the policy of non-intervention in the internal politics of China.

Zemstvo Elections At Vlady To Wait

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, June 23.—It is reported that Japanese on June 18 encountered 200 Red partisans in the village of Kondratenkova, near Souchan, and dispersed them.

The elections to the Zemstvo Assembly have been delayed owing to disagreement between the non-Socialists and other social groups and M. Merkulov, who wishes to reduce the number of Deputies to a minimum.

Wu Ting-fang Is Dead

Wu Ting-fang

DR. Wu . . . contributed more than any Chinese living or dead to foreign understanding of, and friendship for, China. As Director of Foreign Affairs he conducted the revolution of 1911-12 which deposed the Manchus, and as the leading figure in the Conference here, carried the day for the Republic. . . . He died with the cries of the whole country ringing in his ears for his return to the Premiership at Peking and with his own cause being shot to pieces in the factional dispute between Dr. Sun Yat-sen and Gen. Chen Chiung-ming. His brave old heart just gave out.—Editorial, today's China Press.

"Buck" Has His Day Aboard The Chandler

By Irene Corbally

When a perfectly good dog of the pointer variety, used in hunting and therefore possessed of good qualities, including, perhaps, discrimination, leaves a destroyer that brought him from Philadelphia to the Adriatic-washed shores of Dalmatia to board another vessel, the chances are ten to one there is nothing much the matter with the adopted ship. In fact, one would be safe in saying that the "Chandler," the ship selected by "Buck," the travelling brown and white pup as his permanent berth, is a pretty good little craft.

The "Chandler" is one of sorts of dog mascots in its career as a destroyer, but none which have exhibited the intelligence and the staying qualities that Buck has. Buck has stayed on this earth longer than his canine predecessors. And he has come back to stay on the "Chandler" even when late liberty which he takes of his own accord, on the "beach" in various ports has caused him to miss the last boat back to the ship and he has found himself temporarily aboard another ship.

The "Chandler," is one of the destroyers that are well-known along the China coast and particularly in Shanghai, for it has been here on several previous occasions. It spent a good part of last summer in Chefoo where the destroyers are going again this summer for gun practice.

RARELY MISSES BOAT

On more than one occasion when "Buck" went ashore, either with some of the men or on a one-dog expedition by himself, he came back to the shore line and waited until the "Chandler" launch should appear to take him back to his berth. "Buck" rarely misses the last boat. When he does, he makes the destroyer somehow, usually by attaching himself to another small boat or sampan, outward bound, and depending on some generous, dog-living seaman to inform his "Chandler" family that he is back and please send the launch over for him.

"Buck" is no ordinary dog. His intelligence has given him a bit of temperament, augmented by the fuss that is made over him. Clark, the chief-gunner's mate whose particular pet the dog is, is a regular Santa Claus to "Buck." He is always buying him new collars. The latest addition, purchased in Shanghai, is a brown leather affair, studded with brass knobs, and with an engraved name-plate with "Buck's" name and address on it. The mascot has a collar for every port he has been in, and they're plenty, for the temperamental pup is the most-travelled dog in the navy.

"He looks dumb but he isn't," said one of the men. As a matter of fact, Buck doesn't look stupid, only bored and quite blase. He hasn't had any shore leave since he has been in Shanghai and he shows his lofty disdain of the powers that have withheld this simple pleasure from him by snubbing all visitors, even those with the most kindly and caressingly petting intentions Toward him.

A HARD-BOILED BIRD

He even sniffed disgustingly when the fighting canary, another "Chandler" pet, taking the air from its gilt cage in the fo'csle, broke into its daily five minutes of song yesterday afternoon. The canary, name unknown, is a hard-boiled bird. It fights all the time. Its feathers are in a continual state of bedufflement.

"If he didn't do that little bit of singing every day and if he wasn't yellow, I'd say he was a small hawk," said one of the men.

The canary breaks into song once a day only to prove that he has a voice. The rest of the time he spends in pecking and quivering in impotent rage against anyone who comes near his cage.

Besides "Buck" and the canary there is another pet on board, temporarily. He is a chow dog, brought up from Manila for a "look-see" at Shanghai. So far the heat has been bad enough to cause him to submit to a halfportion shearing of his thick, glossy coat.

VETERAN STATESMAN WHO LED IN FORMING REPUBLIC DEAD AT 78

"Father Of Democracy" In China Pases While Negotiations For His Assumption Of Premiership At Peking Were Under Way; Aide Of Dr. Sun Yat-sen

SERVED MANY YEARS AS ENVO

Recognition For New Government Created In Revolution Of 1911 Gained Largely Through His Influence With Western Powers; Was Native Of Kwangtung

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, June 23.—Dr. Wu Ting-fang died in Canton this morning.

The death of Dr. Wu Ting-fang, the veteran statesman of China, will be keenly mourned throughout the nation as well as in America and Europe where he had hosts of friends and admirers. As one of the first exponents for Republicanism in China, Dr. Wu will go down in history probably as the Father of Chinese Democracy just as Washington was in the United States. His sudden death is made all the more dramatic on account of prestige he held in the country and the confidence that the nation had in him as the man of the hour.

Chaotic as the nation is, the concensus of opinion throughout China is that Dr. Wu held the key to the political situation and the offer made by the Peking Government to appoint him the Premier in the first Coalition Cabinet was hailed as an effort to pave the way for genuine reunification. But the aged diplomat apparently held out to his last breath, vowing allegiance to his lifelong companion and running mate, Dr. Sun Yat-sen.

Latest dispatches from Canton stated that Dr. Wu was with Mr. Eugene Chen, the celebrated writer, when the troops of Chen Chiung-ming seized his home after disarming the bodyguards of Dr. Sun. The doctor for a time was non-plussed and look blankly at the intruders. But the soldiers, out of respect to the aged statesman, allowed him to go to the home of a friend where he remained under cover for sometime before he was compelled to go to a hospital.

CHEN CONCILIATORY

Although Reuters was brief in the report of his death, the cause is attributed to his age and his generally weakened physique which could no longer stand the strain of excitement created by the recent civil commotion in Canton. According to the Chinese press, he entered the Chu Kung Hospital in Canton on June 21 when he surrendered his seal of the Civil Governor of Kwangtung to the Provincial Assembly which in turn sent it to General Chen Chiung-ming.

General Chen, despite his difference from the political views of Dr. Wu, was most conciliatory towards him. A telegram was addressed to Dr. Wu just prior to the latter's admission to hospital. The text was as follows:

"The Old Parliament has been restored and the Bogus Government dissolved. Our original aim as Constitutionalists has been accomplished. If it is contended that the resumption of the Presidency by General Li Yuan-hung is not in strict accordance with law, the matter should be left to the decision of Parliament.

"If it is contended that militarism still exists in the country, the Central Government should be given an opportunity to work out its proposal for the abolition of the Tuchunate and the curtailment of superfluous troops.

"The anti-Northern expedition has brought destruction to the army and disgrace to the people. Our strength has been exhausted and weakness bared to the world. All this was due to the failure of the authorities to take cognisance of my advice.

"Within the nation, there can be but one law. Law cannot be twisted to suit the selfish purposes of one faction or one clique. The extraordinary session of Parliament has created an ugly precedent by the election of an Extraordinary President. Future generations may yet have to regret what was done by this session. I had previously lodged a strenuous protest against the measure, but it was of no avail.

PLEADS FOR AID

"I have attempted to tolerate this with the hope that when the time comes the parliamentarians would see fit to abolish their activities. However, they kept on living under the flag of Constitutionalism and claiming that they alone were capable of reconstructing the nation. This is but like the proud trumpet-blowing of an unbalanced person and cannot be considered as views of a citizen who keeps the nation's interest at heart.

"All I hope now is that through your assistance, Dr. Sun

CALIFORNIA "U" GLEE CLUB GIVES CONCERT TONIGHT

College Songsters And Musicians Arrive Here On S. S. President Cleveland

The first of the series of concerts to be given here by the University of California Glee Club will take place at the Olympic Theater tonight. The twenty-eight members of the club, including their ten-piece jazz band, arrived here yesterday on the S. S. President Cleveland from Japan.

Several of the men making the trip with the Glee Club have made reputations outside of California as the result of their Glee work. Mr. Albert King, pianist, has recently returned from a six months concert tour of Europe, and he is declared to be one of the finest of the younger musicians of America. Earl Reed, saxaphone soloist, is hailed in California as the successor of Charles Strickfadden, the remarkably successful instrumentalist who made the tour of the Orient with the Glee Club two years ago, and who now is one of the highest paid dance musicians in America.

As song and dance comedians, Harold Girvin and George Taylor have had professional experience, and with Jack Cole, they are prepared to present a number of clever vaudeville numbers.

A saxaphone quartet will also be featured by the Californians at their first concert tonight and at the performances which will be given on the four succeeding nights similar programs will be presented.

On Thursday the Glee Club will give a cabaret dance in the Summer Garden of the Astor House.

Thirty Slain In Coal War In U. S.

(Reuter's Service)

Herrin, Ill., June 23.—It is now believed that 30 persons were killed in yesterday's fighting between Union and non-Union miners. Bodies were found scattered over fifteen square miles, some riddled with bullets and some beaten to death while others were hanged on trees.

may be induced to give up his glories and demonstrate to the world that it was the public that he had been working for during the trying hours of Constitutional defense."

Meanwhile a special mission had been dispatched by the Peking Government to proceed to Canton to welcome Dr. Wu back to the capital to assume his office as Premier.

Born in Kwangtung, Dr. Wu was 78 years old at the time of his death. He received his primary education at St. Paul's College, Hongkong. After graduation, he proceeded to England where he was later called to the bar at Lincoln's Inn, London, and on account of his excellent scholarship, he received the honorary degree of LL. D. In November, 1896, Dr. Wu was appointed Minister to Washington, Spain and Peru.

During the Boxer uprising in 1900 when the world was in suspense as to what had happened to the foreigners in China, Dr. Wu suceeded in establishing communications from Washington with the foreign legations and missions besieged by the rebels in Peking. In 1903, he was recalled and appointed Vice-minister of the Board of Commerce, holding concurrently the office of Commissioner for Treaty Revision. In 1905, he became Judge of the International Court of Arbitration at The Hague. Two years later, he was again sent to the United States, Spain, Peru and Cuba as Minister. He made his headquarters at Washington where he was regarded as the most popular as well as picturesque member of the Diplomatic Corps, travelling extensively and speaking to large audiences everywhere. After his three-year term, he returned to China.

REPUBLICAN LEADER

But it was during the Great Revolution of 1911 that Dr. Wu became the real national head as he was. Realising the necessity of world-wide intelligence on the movement, he directed personally the revolutionary foreign propaganda from Shanghai. He worked hard for the recognition of the Republic on the part of the foreign powers. The appeal circulated by him to the powers created a profound impression generally at that time and is destined to be document of much historical value. It read in part:

"The Chinese people are not untried of self-government. For countless ages they ruled themselves, they developed observance of law to a degree not known among other races; they developed arts and industries and agriculture and knew a peace and contentment surpassingly sweet.

"They have chosen to set up a Republic and their choice, we believe, is a wise one. There is no class of nobility among the Chinese and they have no recognised royal family to set up in place of the departing Manchu royal house. This is great democracy. The officials spring from the people and to the people they return.

"We ask recognition of the Republic because the Republic is a fact.

"Fourteen of the eighteen provinces have declared their independence of the Manchu Government and promulgated their allegiance to the Republic. The remaining provinces will, it is expected, soon take the same course.

"The Manchu Dynasty finds its power fallen away and its glitter of yesterday becomes but a puppet show. Before going, it has stripped itself of authority by consenting to the terms of the proposed constitution which already have been made public.

"The most glorious page in Chinese history has been written with a bloodless pen."

PEACE ARBITER

When Hanyang fell into the hands of the Revolutionists, Dr. Wu assumed a very ambitious position in the Republican party, being generally recognised as the man best suited to carry out peace negotiations with the North, which was represented by Mr. Tang Shao-yi. The Shanghai Peace Conference began on December 18, 1911, which was to be a red-letter day in the future history of China. The conference was looked upon throughout the world as an epoch-making event and upon Wu Ting-fang rested a responsibility seldom fallen to the lot of man.

The conference succeeded. A provisional government was established in Nanking under President Sun Yat-sen. Dr. Wu retired into private life, residing in his modest looking grey residence on Gordon Road, Shanghai. He devoted his time to the study of Confucianism and Buddhism.

In 1916, he again entered into public service at the persuasion of General Li Yuan-hung. He was made Minister of Foreign Affairs upon the restoration of the old Parliament, which was dissolved by Yuan Shih-kai in 1914. In 1917, he succeeded Marshal Tuan Chi-jui as Premier of China after signing the Presidential Mandate relieving the Marshal from his office. When Chang Hsun and other militarists compelled Li Yuan-hung to issue a Mandate to dissolve Parliament, it was Dr. Wu who heroically stood firm against the issuance and quit the capital without counter-signing the decree. He came to Shanghai and after a short stay proceeded to Canton to set up the Southwestern Federation to fight for the Constitutional cause. He was made one of the seven administrative directors of the Southwest.

MAKES NEW STAND

A split between General Tsen Chun-hsuan and Dr. Sun resulted in a breakdown in the Southern administration and Dr. Sun and Dr. Wu were obliged, in 1919, to come back to Shanghai to live in retirement for some time. But in 1920 another stand was made by the Constitutionalists and the extraordinary session of Parliament elected Dr. Sun president of South China after General Chen Chiung-ming had ousted General Lu Yung-ting. General Tsen Chun-hsuan and Mr. Wen Tsung-yao, the three opposition administrators. Dr. Wu had since then headed the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, holding concurrently the Governorship of Kwangtung.

Locally, Dr. Wu was always an interesting figure during his declining years. Always cordial and entertaining, he had endeared himself to many friends by his simplicity, straightforwardness and sincerity.

In him, China has lost a great statesman, a great scholar, a great diplomat and lawyer!

Sir Henry Wilson Shot At Home After Unveiling Statue

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 22.—Field-Marshal Sir Henry Wilson was shot dead outside his London residence at 2.40 this afternoon. Two arrests have been made.

The news of the tragedy caused a very great stir of dismay in the House of Commons. Mr. Lloyd George was so absorbed that he failed to answer a question regarding honors to the momentary irritation of a member.

Mr. Asquith crossed to the Treasury Bench and earnestly discussed the matter with Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Churchil and Mr. Chamberlain.

Business was halted and then Mr. Asquith rose and with emotion described as tidings of the most dreadful character the murder of a gallant soldier, one of the great War generals who had become equally esteemed as a member of the House of Commons.

Mr. Chamberlain, replying to Mr. Asquith's request, for information, movingly gave what was available and proceeded to pay a tribute to Sir Henry Wilson's services.

He concluded by moving the adjournment of the House, precedents notwithstanding, as a mark of profound respect. This was sorrowfully done.

Sir Henry Wilson was shot shortly after the unveiling of a war memorial to Great Eastern Railway employees at Liverpool Street station. He drove up in a taxi-cab to his residence in Eaton Place at 2.40 this afternoon.

CONFLICTING ACCOUNTS

There are conflicting accounts of the tragedy. Some say that the assassins forced their way into the house after a fight with the police, who were recently assigned to watch Sir Henry Wilson and others, and that the two men opened fire immediately Sir Henry alighted from the taxicab.

Sir Henry ducked and, the shots having missed, leapt up the steps and tried to open the door with his latchkey.

The third shot hit him in the head and he fell into the roadway in a pool of blood. Police hearing the shots, rushed up and a running fight ensued in which four constables were shot, two of them seriously.

Two arrests were made. The men arrested were named Connolly and O'Brien.

One of the policemen wounded has since died.

Eaton Place was under repair. The workmen's accounts of the actual tragedy are very contradictory but they and other eyewitnesses tell graphic stories of the pursuit.

It appears that when Sir Henry Wilson fell, the murderers tried to seize a motorcar at the corner but were frustrated and fled on foot, walking rapidly in the center of the roadway and firing on the crowd.

There were 200 pursuers including ten policemen, on whom the murderers fired, wounding a civilian in addition to two constables.

The murderers were rounded up in Ebury Street and captured after a desperate struggle in which the police used their truncheons.

One ruffian aiming a revolver was disarmed by a blow on the wrist by a skilfully thrown truncheon.

CROWD INFURIATED

The infuriated crowd closed in and the police had great difficulty in preventing the murderers from being beaten to death.

The ruffians are officially described as each being aged 24 with no occupation or address.

One is big and burly and was badly hurt in the struggle and the other is slight and limping.

The King has cancelled tomorrow's dinner in honour of the birthday of the Prince of Wales in consequence of the murder.

In the House of Lords Lord Birkenhead read a Scotland Yard message, stating that Sir Henry Wilson was shot three times. Examination disclosed wounds on the body, arm and leg.

It is believed that the shooting occurred on the threshold of his house when he was about to leave.

The two arrested men, James O'Brien and James Connolly, decline to give an account of themselves beyond saying that they were soldiers but they did not indicate their regiment.

The police found a copy of the official organ of the Irish Republican Army on Connolly and also correspondence proving that he was undoubtedly a member of the I. R. A.

Lord Birkenhead paid a tribute to Sir Henry Wilson and Lord Salisbury introduced a resolution recording the House's detestation of the horrible crime by which the country was deprived of a most distinguished soldier and public servant.

Lord Crewe and others supported the resolution, after which it was silently adopted by the House.

Reuter understands that after the adjournment of the House of Commons the Ministers discussed the position but in the absence of full information of all the circumstances, they were unable to reach any conclusions regarding the possible consequences of the assassination.

A widespread fear prevails amongst the members of the House that there will be a reaction in Ulster which will fall upon the Catholic minority. It is also suggested that the extremists who planned the murder may contemplate other assassinations.

It is said that the police are taking special precautions to protect certain persons who may possibly have been marked down.

Rose Coghlan, Actress, Almost Destitute

ROSE Coghlan, for nearly fifty years one of the brightest stars in American theatricals, is almost destitute in New York. Defective memory makes it impossible for her to hold anything but very poor roles. Otto Kahn and David Belasco have rallied to the aid of Miss Coghlan and a public benefit will be given for her.

Y.W.C.A. Workers Sail For South

Miss Amy M. Smith, executive secretary of the Northwestern field of the Y.W.C.A., including the states of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, and Miss Dorothy Jenks, publicity secretary of the South Atlantic Field of the Y.W.C.A., the states of Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, left Shanghai this morning for Hongkong via Manila.

Miss Smith and Miss Jenks are taking a year's vacation in which they will circle the globe. They left America early in March and spent two months in Japan and Korea. They have toured north China, visiting Peking, Tientsin, Mukden, Tianfu, Chu'fu and Nanking, and have been in Shanghai for a short visit. Before leaving China for their trip toward Europe, they will spend some time in Canton.

Indo-China Envoys Arrive In Peking

(Reuter Pacific Service)

Peking, June 23.—A Chinese delegation from Indo-China has reached Peking. Its object is to request the Government to approach the French Government regarding the establishment of Chinese Consulates at Saigon, Haiphong, Hanoi and other centers of Indo-China for the protection of Chinese interests.

This is a long-standing question with which the Indo-China authorities in the past have not been in sympathy, but the Chinese residents are now taking up the matter vigorously and there seems a likelihood of an early settlement.

Two Ship Lines Cut Cotton Rates

(Reuter's Service)

New York, June 23.—The Southern Pacific and Mallory lines announce a thirty percent reduction in cotton rates between Gulf and Atlantic ports from July 1, which means an enormous saving for the New England mills, and also a ten percent reduction on all other commodities. The export cotton rates remain unchanged.

FOR REMOVING SUPERFLUOUS HAIR.

No woman who has any sense of beauty will deny that superfluous hair is one of the greatest drawbacks to good looks.

Realising this, women of all times have put themselves to any expense, and have endured considerable pain and discomfort in order to rid themselves of this great disfigurement.

Nowadays electrolysis is a prevalent "cure" for this evil, but in reality this process involves a great deal of unnecessary expense, waste of time and pain.

The simplest quickest, and most effective treatment can easily be carried out by any sufferer, in the privacy of her home. This is the recipe:

Procure about 1 oz. powdered pheminol from your chemist; mix a sufficient quantity with a few drops of water into a stiff paste. Apply this carefuly and thoroughly to the hair you wish to remove, and allow the paste to dry. In a few minutes it can be gently scraped away. The skin is left absolutely free from hair, and should then be carefully washed in warm water, and if desired, lightly dusted with a little talcu powder. (Advt.)

"Buck" Has His Day Aboard The Chandler

Undoubtedly, if he stays in Shanghai until the destroyers weigh anchor, he'll be as guiltless of hirsute covering as the w.k. purp known unofficially as a "Mexican hairless."

Young Divine, a tall, blonde seaman now aboard the "Chandler," one of the oldtimers on the vessel, in fact, and previously on so many ships during and after the war that his change of address notification would give any postoffice clerk brain fever keeping up with it has his own ideas about chow dogs, which he unrolled after I had made friends with "Wu," the present visitor. Whether the rest of Wu's name is Pei-fu or not, I didn't learn.

"I had a chow dog," said Divine. "The only reason why I had one was because Jim Corbett had one and I didn't want him to have a chow dog and not me."

Divine believes in the worship of great men. He has his own way of expressing his admiration for them and it is done in language that makes him smile and causes his hearers to chuckle, but which is, nevertheless, sincere, for Divine is a regular fellow who doesn't know how to be anything else but sincere.

"When we were in Cairo once," he said, "we went down to the desert to see that stone guy that stops sandstorms. The Sphinx or something. The only reason I wanted to see it was because John McGraw saw him and I didn't want him to see it and not me." Which is the highest praise from the young fellow. Jawn would be flattered. Especially if he could hear it the same time that whenever anybody tries to "razz" Divine he usually has a triple bagger in the way of a razzing come-back.

Charges Against Linn Dismissed

Charges that had been made against Mr. Y. C. Linn, a Chinese attorney, on which he was called before the Mixed Court yesterday to show cause why he should not be disbarred were dismissed by American Assessor R. P. Tenney and Magistrate Lon. The opium, ...ed about ten thousand ...lars Mex. ($10,000) was, ...ever, retained by the police ...s still so retained, pending ...on of the Court of Consuls. No ...her action has been taken ...e Italian Consul-General.

...Although the smuggling of ...m into Shanghai is greatly in...sed at present, there are com...atively few convictions. Thirty ... cases of opium worth five ...dred thousand dollars (500,...) were caught in a place on ...ndong Road, and twenty cases ...opium worth three hundred ...sand dollars ($300,000) were ...ht in a motor truck owned by a certain company, while at another time a few thousand dollars worth of opium was caught in a motor car owned by a certain important member of the police. From investigation of the opium smuggling in Shanghai, we judge that there are hands behind the scenes, otherwise the capture of such large quantities would be impossible.

"Shanghai is full of opium poison. Opium smoking is well spread in the city. There were over three thousand fines for opium smoking during the year. Big rewards by the Chinese police in the interior to those who lead to conviction of opium sellers or opium smokers drives the offenders to Shanghai where they can secure protection in their opium dealing. We are therefore urging the Mixed Court and the Municipal Council to adopt the method of the Chinese Government regarding rewards given to those who are able to catch people dealing with opium. Our request has not yet been granted. We have also requested the Chinese Government to extend their rewards to informants of opium smuggling in Shanghai, whether or not they be employees of the customs, so as to encourage the fight against opium.

"Since 1920 the import of morphine, strychnine, caffeine and other poisonous drugs is greatly increased. They now value about one hundred million dollars. We have repeatedly cabled the governments and interested organisations of all nations to help stop the import of all poisonous drugs in order to arrest the evil and so save humanity.

"Opium has reeked its toll on China for many years. It makes one heart-broken to see some of the lawless militarists plant opium for their selfish purpose. It not only looses the confidence of other nations but brings great harm to the people. This is an international affair and we are members of the International Anti-Opium Association, so we must ceaselessly wage our opium war.

"We earnestly seek your support and co-operation."

The three resolutions passed at the meeting were as follows:

1. To Prohibit the Importation of Strychnine and Cafferine.

Strychnine and Cafferine are indispensable components of Anti-Opium Pills. Strychnine comes in a white crystaline form, having a bitter acrid taste and is very poisonous. Its use in medicine is as a general neurotic stimulant, the dose being only 1-60 of a grain. A stronger dose would be fatal. Cafferine is similar to Strychnine, but somewhat weaker in effect.

In China, pill-makers mix these two noxious drugs with Hercoine, Gum Tragacanth, Sugar of Milk, Quinine and so on to form the so-called Anti-Opium Pills. These pills while intended as a substitute for opium, stimulate the nervous system and create the drug habit.

In spite of the restrictions on the so-called Anti-Opium Pills, thousands of people are killed by them, especially in the provinces of Shensi, Shantung, Honan, Chihli, Kansu. The fundamental need is to stop the evil at its source.

Prior to the year 1914, the importation of Strychnine and Cafferine into China was limited to two or three ounces a year, the amount necessary for a dispensary to use in making up prescriptions. But millions of pounds of these two noxious drugs are now imported yearly. This of course is not used medically, but largely in the manufacture of Anti-Opium Pills. The importers, however, claim that Strychnine is also used by fur traders to kill wild animals. Now every ounce of Strychnine can kill at least one hundred animals. Just imagine how many animals these millions of pound Strychnine must kill. But what then is Cafferine used for? Practically these drugs are used to kill people.

The quantity of Strychnine transportable by mail has already been restricted by the Chinese Government. It is strange that the Customs have not heard of such restriction, for it is freely imported through the Customs in Shanghai and elsewhere. In July 15, 1921 we made a resolution applicable to the Customs which was passed by the Committee here and forwarded to the Head Office of the International Anti-Opium Association at Peking, asking them to take up the matter with the Chinese Government and the Consular Bodies there. In reply we were advised that the character of these two noxious drugs is different from that of opium. Again we were refused by Customs when we applied for the exact quantity of its importation. To disclose this is a matter concerning the morality of mankind. The following were recommended: (a) Anti-Opium Association with joint organisations should ask the Chinese Government to issue a proclamation restricting the importation of the noxious drugs and request the Diplomatic Corps to assist the procedure. (b) The importation of Strychnine and Cafferine and other noxious drugs for medicinal purposes should be investigated closely by Customs. Laws governing the application of said restriction of Strychnine and Cafferine should be drafted, i. e. regulations showing the quantity a dispensary may at any time lawfully keep in stock and the purposes for which it might be used.

2. To ask the Chinese Government to Resume and Increase the Customs Reward to Opium Informants.

Opium traffic has greatly increased recently both from abroad and from the interior. The Chinese Government should try to stop it at its source. Instead of this, she has reduced the amount of Customs reward which naturally causes disturbance and an increased trade in opium. According to previous Customs regulations for seizure of opium amounting to Tls. 100 the informant was be rewarded $4. Later this reward was reduced, with the result that informants have been discouraged and opium smuggling has actually increased. Accordingly the price of opium has come down (it is only $3.00 per ounce at present). Poor people who had given up the opium smoking have once more become victims. If the Government does not resume and increase the Customs reward, the inevitable result will be a marked increase in opium smuggling.

3. To ask International Settlements to Employ the Chinese Regulation of Reward in respect of Opium Prohibition.

Opium smuggling and smoking are more active in the settlements than in any other places in China. There are fines for opium smuggling but no reward to informants. Owing to the rewards in the interior opium smokers and smugglers find it difficult to live and choose Shanghai for protection. So the opium traffic is prosperous here. The Anti-Opium Association and joint organisations should request the Chinese Government to issue a proclamation to Governors and Consular Bodies, asking the Mixed Court, and the Municipal Council to adopt the Chinese regulation of reward.

It is suggested that the above recommendations be immediately telegraphed to the Chinese Government, Consular Bodies, Provincial Governors, and all Administrative Offices, requesting that they be put into action immediately.

Officers for 1922, elected at yesterday's meeting follow:

President, Mr. C. Y. Wen; Vice Presidents, Dr. C. S. Loo, Judge C. S. Lobinger, Mr. O. M. Green and the Rev. J. W. Crofoot; Hon. Secretary, Dr. F. Rawlinson; Hon. Secretary, (Chinese) Mr. Y. F. COURT ORDERS SOOCHOW ROAD HOUSES CLOSED

Women Conducting Nos. 14 And 15 Fined—Moral Welfare Workers Testify

On testimony presented by four investigators of the Moral Welfare League dwellings at No. 14 and No. 15 Soochow Road were held to be unlicensed brothels by British Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Li yesterday in the Mixed Court and two foreign women conducting establishments each were fined $100 and were ordered to vacate the places within two weeks. A third case against a feminine defendant alleged to be maintaining a brothel at No. 53 Kiangse Road also was taken up, but when a question of jurisdiction was interposed this hearing was continued for a week.

The judgment was given in the cases of 14 and 15 Soochow Road after the women accused had sought vainly to convince the court that their places merely were boarding houses, contradicting flatly the testimony that had been presented in reference to sales of intoxicants at specified times.

In opening the hearing Superintendent of Police Vaughn, who conducted the prosecution asked that the names of the Moral Welfare League's representatives who collected the evidence in the cases be withheld and this was ordered by the Court.

According to the testimony of the four witnesses for the prosecution they had visited the two places on June 1 and June 13 as prospective patrons and had purchased intoxicants while being entertained in reception rooms by groups of young women. The witnesses set forth clearly that conversations carried on with these young women revealed beyond all possible doubt that they were engaged in 'the oldest profession.' In one of the places they had met with four girls and in the other eight had put in appearance.

Superintendent of Police Vaughn himself took the stand and testified that before the Vice Commission's scheme for the elimination of disorderly houses had been brought into operation two years ago both houses No. 14 and No. 15 Soochow Road were brothels.

While the place at No. 14 became licensed as a brothel it was eliminated and lost its license at the drawing of last December and should have closed its doors on March 31. It is said that No. 15 never has been licensed as a brothel and according to testimony given yesterday, a Miss Edith Wolf, who formerly conducted the house, has been away from Shanghai for some time, having left the house in charge of a Miss Vera, who was one of the defendants at yesterday's hearing. In the case of No. 14 two defendans called were 'Clara and 'Jean,' bnt no penalty was imposed upon the first named, as her testimony that she had been merely a housekeeper and had no part in the management of the place was not contradicted.

In the course of the hearing several signed chits that had been obtained by the prosecution's witnesses in the course of their investigation were produced, but the defendants denied any knowledge of these. Another singular point that stirred the interest of Assessor Blackburn arose when the defendant 'Jean' asserted stoutly that her place was a boarding house, admitting that all of her 'boarders' were young women of whose occupations she professed ignorance.

"What are their names?" was asked.

"Well, there's Mary—and Marta—and Lilly—and—"

"But have these ladies only Christian names?" the Assessor asked. The witness was unable to give an adequate reply, saying merely that she knew her 'boarders' only by their first names.

When the third case involving the premises at No. 53 Kiangse Road was called for hearing the defendant through her attorney Mr. J. O. Fisher denied that the Mixed Court had jurisdiction. This contention was advanced on the grounds that the defendant claimed Peruvian nationality.

"But there is no Peruvian Consul here," Assessor Blackburn interposed.

"No," Mr. Fisher replied, "but there is perhaps some other consulate willing to assume the protection of Peruvian citizens, who will hear the case."

Assessor Blackburn then ruled that the Court would not recognise any such jurisdiction in the case unless it is shown that a treaty exists between Peru and some other country delegating protection of Peruvians to the other country.

"The hearing of the case then was continued for one week.

CALIFORNIA COLLEGIANS TO MEET SHANGHAI IN SECOND HALF OF DOUBLE BILL TODAY

37th Division And 38th To Start The Program At 2 O'Clock

TODAY'S GAMES
37th Div'n vs. 38th Div'n, 2 p.m.
Shanghai vs. California Collegians, 3:30 p.m.

Local baseball fans will be given a treat at the ball park this afternoon, when the Shanghai team takes on the strong nine composed of some of the best college players in San Francisco. The game, which will be the second of a good double-headed bill, will be the first of a series of three of five between the local nine and the visitors.

The California team is perhaps the strongest aggregation of baseball players matched against Shanghai this season. Seven regular players from the University of California University team are in the lineup, and seven other collegians from other schools in San Francisco fill out the squad of 14.

Captain Hopkins will probably work Harry Kingman in the box against California today. The big Leaguer is in great pitching form right now, and with a hard hitting nine facing him will probably extend himself in Big League style, something he has not yet done here this year. John Scott will probably hold down the slab tomorrow. John is Shanghai's winning pitcher this year. He is going strong enough to hold any bunch of batsmen, whether they wear their "U" letter or not. Wynn and Cadigan will be kept on tap for emergencies.

The selections for the game today have not yet been announced. Holliday it is certain will not play. He is still nursing a spiked hand which he sustained Monday when sliding into second in the game against the flagship. Maloney will probably cover the hot corner in his stead. Mal has been taking some batting practice lately, and with an early game and better light he may find that his bad eye will not bother him. Bills of course will be at short, and Thatch very likely at second. Other positions are wide open. Wood or Lake will cover first with Wall or Hirsh backstopping. The outfield might have any three of a dozen men playing.

California while not ready last night to announce a batting order or even a lineup, gave out their players' names and positions so that local fans might become familiar with them. Mitchell, a 'varsity pitcher will probably do the hurling, with McHenry starting at first base and prepared to take up the slab work if needed. Armstrong, another 'varsity man will catch. Davidson will cover second, Turner will play at third, and T. Bills will work at short. All of these men played on the big California nine so that the visitors will have a solid regular infield. Bowens, another member of the Bear's nine will play at center, L. Bills and Reed will handle left and right gardens, with Carter, Taylor, Cole, Gray and Graff reserve outfielders.

The first game between the 37th and the 38th Divisions will be called at 2 p.m. It will be a 7-inning affair so that the California-Shanghai game may be started by 3:30.

RUTH IS AGAIN SUSPENDED FOR THREE WEEKS

Chicago, June 22.—George H. "Babe" Ruth, champion home run hitter, has been suspended for three weeks following an altercation with Umpire William J. Dineen at Cleveland yesterday, where the New York Americans were playing.

Ruth was chased from the game by Umpire Dineen after the Babe had disputed a decision in the eighth inning. Dineen immediately made a report to President Ban B. Johnson of the American League here and the suspension edict followed. It is Babe's third suspension this season.

Baseball Notes

The following is an excerpt from a letter received yesterday from Mr. Gallop, manager of the Shanghai Baseball team:

"In the Friday issue of the CHINA PRESS there is one statement to which the players of our team and the writer object as decidedly uncalled for and without foundation, as follows:

"'Moreover the players contend that they are doing the spectators a favor in playing at all. They are not paid for it. It is nothing particularly to them whether there is a game or not.'

"The players have at no time to the writer's knowledge adopted this attitude and several have already voiced their objections to having anyone endeavor to create the impression that the fans need 'worship at the players feet,' so to speak, to have baseball games. They are playing ball because they want to and like to, and are only too glad to please the fans in every way."

If Mr. Gallop were not such a capable and enthusiastic manager, particularly if he were not such an enthusiastic manager he wouldn't allow his ordinarily even disposition to be ruffled by such a frivolous "issue" as this.

However, if "eating them rash words" will yield any degree of satisfaction to those club officials and players who mistakenly assume that it is their special province to decide what is "called for" in this column, why, they may consider them as jammed chokingly back into the throat of the well intentioned but blundering Underwood from which they witlessly escaped.

Nevertheless it is only fair to those of the patrons who may not have read the comment yesterday, to point out that the paragraph to which Mr. Gallop objects, when singled from the context, stands out rather bluntly, when as a matter of fact the article as a whole was altogether conciliatory and written with an eye single to re-impressing the patrons of the game with that sense of obligation toward the players which all feel, but which some are inclined to forget, particularly in moments of irritation caused by delays in starting games at the time advertised, or by one of those unaccountable let-ups in play from which all teams suffer at times, or by other causes.

Friday's comment was not inspired, directly or indirectly, by anything that Mr. Gallop or any of the players ever said, in view of which it may be stated for the benefit of "certain parties" who from their places of complete safety behind trees of anonymity are everlastingly attributing "motives" to those of us who do our work in the open, that this column is nobody's grindstone.

Huron Blows Up In Sixth; 12th Division Wins, 12-4

Flagship Uses Three Pitchers, But Their Own Errors Give Game Away

The flagship Huron baseball nine lost a good game yesterday to the 12th Division when they fell to pieces in the sixth inning when the score was tied at 2-all and the going looked to be even-up all around. The Destroyer men pushed seven runs across the pan in that frame and in the eighth connected with Simers' shoots for three more. The final score was 12-4, the Huron taking two more counts in the eighth when the 12th's infield bungled three times in a row behind a double by Liddy.

The game was well played until that fatal sixth. The flagship started the scoring in the first on a walk and two nice hits, by Bennett and Lamke. The 12th Division scored one in the first on two nice bingles and two outs at first, and then, in the fifth added another from Kling's single and Callery's triple.

Cluni started off in the sixth with a life on Truby's muff of his easy pop fly. Sikora was an easy out at first. Hughes got safe on Cavanaugh's fumble and went to second on the overthrow to first. Zelensky singled to center scoring Hughes. Brown singled to left advancing Zelensky to third. Cavanaugh made his third error of the inning when he fumbled Grim's grounder, letting Zelenski in from third. Kling followed with a double scoring Brown. Callery went safe on a play at the plate in which Kling tallied. Draper was yanked then. He was pitching weak ball, Simers relieved him with some nice pitching. He walked one man then fanned the next two, retiring the side.

The Huron changed half of their lineup when Draper went out but by then the team was all up in the air so that play became no better. Neal fared well while

Sporting Editor's Letter Box

Sporting Editor: THE CHINA PRESS

I wish to make a criticism in regards to the batting averages published in your paper on the 21st inst. According to my records you have not included all of the players in all of the games they have played in (Japanese and Nanking). Why not give all of the players their just due? For instance you have one man hitting for .200 when he is really around the .400 mark. Hoping that this letter will be given your consideration, and you will correct your errors,

I remain,

Baseball Fan and Club Member.
Shanghai, June 22, 1922.

The averages published Wednesday included all games played this year excepting the two with Tungwen Japanese college, the one with the American School and the one Reds-Blues game played so far this season. It was decided by Manager Gallop, Captain Hopkins and members of the committee that these games should be classed as practice games, and not to figure in the season's averages. Both Nanking games were included in figuring the percentages.—Ed.

Australasia Gets Start In Davis Cup Play

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 22.—In the first round of the Davis Cup between Australia and Belgium played at Scarborough today, Patterson (Australia) beat Washer (Belgium) 6-3, 6-4, 6-4. Patterson was rather weak in his backhand play but his service was greatly superior.

Anderson (Australia) beat Watson (Belgium) 6-2, 6-1, 6-2. This match was much more interesting than the first, the players going up to the net frequently. Both made excellent strokes but Anderson was generally more clever.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

June 23, 1922

Spot and forward bar silver were unchanged in London yesterday, as well as in New York.

The London-New York cross rate declined to 442.

The only changes of importance in our official quotations here today were a drop in the Gold Dollar rate to 78¼, and a rise in the Franc rate to 915.

Our market was steady throughout the day, business in Sterling being done at 3s. 6 5/16d. for practically all deliveries to August, and in Gold Dollars at 78¾. At times there were buyers and at times sellers at these quotations.

At the close there were buyers of Sterling at 3s. 6 5/16d. for practically any delivery to August, and sellers of Gold Dollars at 78¾. The market was very quiet, with but few bills offering and practically no demand.

India and China bought a small amount of silver in London yesterday, and the market there is reported as steady.

New York report their market as quite, with small sellers for spot delivery.

Japan Will Send Postal Delegates

(Nihon Dempo Agency)

Tokio, June 23.—In order to open negotiations with the Chinese Government regarding the revision of the present Chino-Japanese postal agreement and the establishment of a special postal service between China and Japan as substitute for the Japanese post-offices in China which are bound to be evacuted from January 1 in conformity with the Washington agreement, both the departments of Foreign Affairs and Communications are shortly despatching officials concerned to Peking.

Bandits Defeated By Government Troops

(China Press Correspondence)

Kuyan, Kansu, June 9.—We have heard from friends living in Shensi that the "tu-fei" (bandits) in Wukong, Siruhfong, and Chi'shan have been utterly defeated by the Government troops, and that there is a prospect of those in Fengsiangfu capitulating. If this is true then there is hope of peaceful progress in that part of Shensi again.

Anyway, a halt has been called in the fighting to give the farmers a chance to reap their wheat, which is considered to be a bumper crop this year down there.

"Mien" is selling in Sian at 60 cash now, while during the year of the famine it was 150 cash. Wheat is priced at 1,200 cash a "tea" there now, while here in Kuyuan the wheat has gone up to nearly 2,000 cash a "tea."

Opium will bring in a fairly good price this year down there, while here it is only several inches high yet. This evil is still allowed to flourish to the detriment of the people. This city is an awful opium hole. One man said the other day that out of every ten people eleven use opium!

I should judge from what I have seen that out of every ten perhaps six use it. The women are terribly addicted to its use. Then, of couse, it brings in a good revenue to the officials.

Britain Unable To Remit War Debts

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 22.—The question of the French war debt to Great Britain was brought up in the House of Commons today and evoked a statement by Mr. Lloyd George that the French Government had not endeavored to raise the question of cancellation but the subject was naturally mentioned between representatives of the two countries.

The Premier repeated that the taxpayers were not able to remit the sums advanced to other countries during and after the war.

If the payment of interest and capital were pressed in respect of loans to Britain to aid the prosecution of the war, the Government would therefore notify such countries that we must be regarded as free to ask for interest in cash in respect of money advanced from October, 1922.

W.H.C. SUPER-DURABLE FLAT PAINT
FLAT WALL FINISH

A perfect Paint of smooth surface for Interior Wall Coating

The surface obtainable with this paint is smooth and flat, i.e., it is not a grainy, dead, lifeless finish, but of a velvety texture. It dries in a reasonably quick time, so that work can be carried out effectively, yet has the property of remaining open long enough to enable the worker to cover a large surface of wall without making laps or edges.

Excellent results with Super Durable Flat Finish are easily obtained, irrespective of the skill of the user, and an elaborate preparation of the surface is usually quite unnecessary.

Super Durable Flat Finish has been tried on non-absorbent surfaces of all kinds and where distemper and oil paint have proved prone to shell or flake off, it has always adhered. It gives a lasting finish of surprising beauty.

WILKINSON HEYWOOD & CLARK

Suit In British Court Outgrowth Of Sale Of Aerated Water Factory

As an outgrowth of a sale made three years ago of Watson's Aerated Water Factory, hearing of a suit of Kwak Vee Yee against Mr. W. J. Haynes to recover damages in the sum of $48,353.50 and Tls. 330 was opened yesterday before Judge Peter Grain in the British Supreme Court. Mr. A. E. Seddon is appearing for the plaintiff in the action and Mr. R. G. McDonald for the defendant.

Mr. Seddon stated that the plaintiff by the deed of sale of May 29, 1919 was entitled to use the name of "Watson's Aerated Water Factory" in the English language, but that he was not entitled to the use of "A. S. Watson and Co., Ltd." nor the Chinese characters mentioning "Watson's Great Medicine House" nor the Lion Unicorn and Pagoda trade mark, though he could use the existing stocks of bottles and labels. The purchase price was $65,000 which included good will, fixture, stock in trade, etc., payable as to $4,000 on the signing of the agreement and $62,500 payable in June, 1919 and the balance by equal yearly instalments, the unpaid balance to be secured by a bill of sale on the plant and machinery. The agreement provided that the plaintiff should be entitled to all profits made and be responsible for all liabilities incurred after December 31, 1919, and that the defendant should account for all the stock-in-trade and materials. The sums of $4,000 and $62,500 were paid and a bill of sale executed on the plant and machinery in favor of the defendant for $28,500, the balance of the purchase price.

Mr. Seddon said that on May 17 last the defendant returned to Shanghai from England and filed an action in the Mixed Court against the plaintiff for the recovery of $28,500. This sum was paid together with Tls. 500 general costs, as the defendant could not be sued in the Mixed Court, being a British subject. That action was now brought before the British Court.

Plaintiff's contention was that when he bought the business he did so on the alleged false representation of the defendant that he had the right to use the trade mark of a mineral bottle between two lions, that the maximum bottling capacity of the plant was about 4,000 dozens a day and that the capacity of the machinery for supplying water was 6,000 dozens a day. The agreement that was entered into between the two parties provided as well that the amount written off for bad debts yearly was about $1,500, and that the largest amount of cash deposit against bottles was $300.

The plaintiff's contention was that the defendant's representations were untrue and that the warranties were broken in that the accounts of the stock-in-trade and materials were not true and accurate accounts. In the stock list were included certain furniture and fittings which were the property of A. S. Watson and Co., and the plaintiff was obliged to deliver up the same to them. The plaintiff also alleged that the trade mark which he had bought from the defendant was an imitation of the Lion Unicorn and Pagoda trade mark used by A. S. Watson and Co., Ltd. The trade mark had never been registered with the Chinese Maritime Customs. The plaintiff also contended that he had to pay to one Chong Kee in May, 1918, the sum of $4,000, which had been previously deposited with the aerated factory, and of which the defendant had given him no information.

Mr. Seddon stated that Messrs. A. S. Watson and Co., Ltd., of Hongkong had taken out an injunction against the aerated factory in the International Mixed Court restraining the plaintiff from selling, and claimed damages as well in respect of the passing off of the imitated goods and also for the delivery of the unsold deceptive goods. By reason of this the plaintiff's business had suffered. Later A. S. Watson and Co. granted an extension of time to six months to the plaintiff provided the plaintiff gave an undertaking that the bottles would be destroyed. Mr. Seddon went on to state that never was the bottling capacity as given in the agreement, 4,000 and 6,000 and also that the bad debts were very much in excess of the $1,500.

It was a curious thing that never until June 18, 1919 when the bill of sale on the machinery was signed did the plaintiff go round to the property that he was purchasing, nor had any of his representative of his gone there before. The plaintiff relied entirely on Haynes and therefore did not think it necessary to go round the property. He found certain cases of bottles unopened and on inquiry was told by Haynes that they were the subject matter of a dispute with a Japanese and that they should not be opened until this dispute was settled.

Proceedings against the plaintiff were taken by Watson's in May, 1920. Before that date the plaintiff received complaints about certain bad water which was being sold and investigations were made and it was found that what had happened was that Haynes during the time the factory belonged to him had sold certain empty bottles to a dealer who in turn sold it to Chinese firms and they had filled the bottles with water which was not good and this was being sold outside the Settlements. It was in consequence of that proceedings were taken by Watson's of Hongkong.

The defence denied that he had handed in March, 1919, to the plaintiff an undated document headed "specification of Watson's Mineral Water Company," nor did he tell the defendant that he could use all the bottles in stock nor did he further induce him to pay the sums of $4,000 and $62,500 and make him execute the bill of sale on false representations.

He also denied that the trade mark was an imitation of the trade mark used by A. S. Watson and Co., Ltd. as alleged in the statement of claim.

The defendant admitted that the trade mark was never registered with the Chinese Maritime Customs. He did not admit that the proceedings in the Mixed Court instituted by A. S. Watson and Co., Ltd., were in consequence of the plaintiff using the bottles nor did he admit that in consequence of the agreement of May 22, 1920 a million labels could not be used by the plaintiff and become of no value and were destroyed.

PRO-TREATY MEN CANDIDATES FAR AHEAD IN ERIN

Coalition To Have 55 Seats In New Parliament

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 22.—The following are the results of the Irish elections:

Coalition pro-Treaty	55
Coalition Republican	34
Labor	15
Farmers' Party	6
Independents	10

It is worthy of note that the anti-Treaty party have lost 24 seats.

The Independents, including the Labor and Farmers' Party, form 25 percent of the new Parliament. Of the 16 Labor candidates only one was defeated.

The declaration of the polling in Mr. Collin's constituency of Mid-Cork alone remains to complete the Republican rout.

It is already known that Mr. Collins headed the poll by double the quota required to secure election. There were 56,593 votes for eight seats in Mid-Cork. Though the counting was protracted, A Labor candidate also polled more than the quota.

The completion of the poll at Kildare and Wicklow, which was 4 for 1 for the Treaty, resulted in three Independents displacing three Republicans. A Coalition pro-Treaty candidate, Mr. Byrne headed the poll. The Republican, Mr. Barton, only secured election under proportional representation.

Later.—Mr. Collins' election for Mid-Cork may be declared void as the result of tampering with ballot papers.

Walter Hagen Leads Field In Open Golf

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 22.—The first day of the open golf championship at Sandwich was remarkable for the failure of Kirkwood who was quite obscured by the British and American performances. The Australian played nervously with only glimpses of his recent form.

Walter Hagen, after an indifferent morning round, led the field with an aggregate of 149 followed by Duncan, Taylor and Barnes each with 151, and Hutchinson with 153. Kirkwood was fourteenth with 155.

The Americans' playing was most confident. Hagen's putting was uncannily accurate. With Taylor and Duncan, however, playing soundly, the final stage promises a stern struggle of a distinctly international character.

Dr. Sun's Expeditionary Army Now At Standstill

(Independent News Service)

Hankow, June 20.—The northern expedition of Canton against Peking heralded by Dr. Sun Yat-sen since he initiated a constitutional government at Canton is now succumbing in Kiangsi with the unconfirmed death of the leading expeditionist, General Li Lieh-chun, Generalissimo of Canton forces attacking Kiangsi. The exit from Canton of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, the firmest sponsor of the expedition scheme, coupled with the reported death of Li Lieh-chun in the Kiangsi front, gave a sudden ending to that aggressive southern anti-Peking expedition. To all appearance, this important episode of Canton-vs-Peking situation is now passing.

The apparent lack of interest in Dr. Sun's expedition on the part of the southwestern provinces and the consequent absence of support, either military or moral, actually frustrated the energetic efforts of Dr. Sun Yat-sen and General Li Lieh-chun, who by sheer force of courage and audacity made rapid inroads into Kiangsi after a weary overland travel across south China. Szechuen, and Hunan, at first the most prospective supporters of the campaign are either disabled by internal provincial squabbles or handicapped by total absence of courage and initiative. The provinces of Kwangsi, Yunnan and Kweichow have their own difficulties, while Yunan and Kweichow are geographically too far apart to help in the campaign.

LEADERS PUZZLED

The survivors of radical southernism, General Huang Tah-wei and General Hsu Chung-tse, are now in a dilemma, in that they have lost their leader in the front as well as their backing from Canton. The most embarrassing item in the situation is the hostile attitude toward radical Kuomintang men, such as Generals Huang and Hsu, on the part of General Chen Chiun-ming, who in pursuance to a suggestion of General Wu Pei-fu, is trying to eliminate all such obstacles on the road to reunification by clearing Canton's house of all expeditionists. General Chen is reported to have mobilized troops under the command of his brother, General Chen Chung-kuang to check Generals Huang and Hsu in the back, thus having them kept at bay from both ends, Kiangsi and Canton.

General Tsai Chen-hsun's Chihli troops of the 1st Division of the War Ministry are rapidly replenishing the evacuated places of southern forces in Kiangsi, who are making a retreat beyond Kianfu. The Chihli militarists are now less enthusiatic about negotiations with expeditionists: they are more anxious to exterminate the exhausted expeditionists by continuing the fight in a sweeping manner. Official versions of war conditions published in Nanchang newspapers indicate that General Tsai Chen-hsun, who has succeeded General Chen, now a fugiture to Hankow as Commander of Kiangsi, is trying to sweep the house clean. Large troop movements to replace southerners are much in evidence in the disturbed part of Kiangsi, and it is expected that General Tsai may at last force expedition troops to disarm before they go home to the south.

MYSTERY IN DEATH

There is much mystery about the death of General Li Lieh-chun, which report was circulated by General Chen Kuang-yuan at Nanchang as early as June 10. In Hankow too the news was also given out from official circles, the report being distributed to newspapers here by the Chief of Police in Hankow on June 17. It is the opinion that it should not take a week for authentic official news of such importance to reach Hankow from Nanchang. General Wu Pei-fu also has his suspicions of the news, and has instructed General Tsai Chen-hsun to investigate and report to Paotingfu.

General Wu Pei-fu is keeping in mind "Charity begins at home," when he endorses the plan to abolish Tuchunship in Kiangsi. But it is said that General Chen Kuang-yuan, seeing no hope for retaining his Tuchunship with the coming to Nanchang of General Tsai Chen-hsun, purposely suggested the withdrawal of Kiangsi tuchunship so that his successor would have no Tuchun post to hold, though he might get a title as Commander or the like.

The post of Civil Governor has been given by Peking to Hsieh Yuan-han, an appointee of the south, which step was taken with the view of hastening the prospect of reunion between the south and north.

Today's Sad And Tragic News

IN today's news columns we report the deaths of Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, one of the greatest and most distinguished strategists, tacticians and organisers developed by the British Empire during the war, and Dr. Wu Ting-fang, famed the world over as statesman, diplomat and wit.

Field Marshal Wilson died in his prime, 58, with apparently a long and useful career of service to his country before him. He was shot to death on his own doorstep, an appalling tragedy, committed by a pair of Irish assassins. With his record we have dealt elsewhere in this issue. We have here only to make record of the sorrow and regret that will be spread over the world by the news of this crime, not only of the crime itself, but of its grotesque futility. The bullet of the assassin inevitably rebounds upon his cause. The reaction almost always is immediate. The bullets in this instance might just as well have been shot at the cause of Irish freedom. And there will be none quicker or more intensely to realise this than the great body of Irishmen who have just voted Pro-Treaty.

Coming to the demise of Dr. Wu Ting-fang, we have to deal with what in some aspects is more pathetic, perhaps in view of the long fight he had waged, more tragic. Dr. Wu was 78 years old. He had contributed more than any Chinese living or dead to make for foreign understanding of, and friendship for, China. As Director of Foreign Affairs he conducted the revolution of 1911-12 which deposed the Manchus, and as the leading figure in the Conference here, carried the day for the Republic. As premier he was the last man of the whole Peking Government to stand against the reactionary tuchunate in 1917. Since that time he had manfully stood to his Constitutional task at Canton.

He died with the cries of the whole country ringing in his ears for his return to the Premiership at Peking and with his own cause being shot to pieces in the factional dispute between Dr. Sun Yat-sen and Gen. Chen Chiung-ming. His brave old heart just gave out.

Shanghai Women Unite To Suppress The Mosquito

MOSQUITOES are found in all parts of the world, but those of us who have lived several years in Shanghai are willing to admit that the Shanghai domestic mosquito is the most troublesome found anywhere. Heat stimulates the mosquito and it is during the coming summer months that the pest will be abundant in the various localities in Shanghai and excessively bloodthirsty. The American, British and Chinese women will work as a unit in eliminating the specie and intend to work with utmost keenness and pertinacity on every occasion and at every opportunity.

With only a few simple precautions much can be done in ridding the homes of the pest, and these precautions include only simple methods, quite within the power of each individual to enforce, and put in execution. First a mosquito needs only a small amount of water in which to lay his eggs, which hatch ten days or so following. If we note all places where water is left standing in any container, cover it with kerosene, thus clogging up the breathing apparatus of the mosquito, a goodly number can be eliminated in this way, before they are able to set forth on an attack.

A small portion of kerosene can be purchased and all drains filled, stagnant pools, kongs, empty flower pots, and even a small amount added to the water with which the garden and vegetables are watered will be of great help, and will not hurt vegetation in any way. This is a confirmed fact, and when the Chinese find this out and put kerosene on their pools and running streams near their homes, it will be the greatest assistance toward ridding Shanghai of the pest.

The other simple methods already mentioned in this paper before should be carried out each day, at a certain hour, and with constant care and attention no end of gain can be made toward helping the situation. Let the servants be instructed to burn out the chimneys each day, dry out all water containers, clean all drains and gutters, turn upside down any empty articles around the premises, as it is in these places a mere bit of water will serve as a breeding place for thousands of mosquitoes. The subsequent use of kerosene, in addition to the observance of the rules heretofore suggested will enable one to see a quick change in his own home and premises surrounding.

Dr. Anne Walter Fearn, who was instrumental in starting the campaign in Shanghai has asked about thirty Chinese men and women to her sanitorium, 30 Route Pichon, on Thursday next, June 29 at 4:30 o'clock, to interest them and seek their co-operation in this campaign against the mosquito. Some of those planning to attend are the following: Mrs. T. C. Chu, president of the Shanghai (Chinese) Women's Club; Mrs. S. M. Woo, Health Committee of the Shanghai Women's Club; Mrs. C. Y. Nieh, Mrs. K. S. Lee, vice-president of that committee; Mrs. L. Chen, and Mrs. C. V. Li, social service department of the club; Mrs. K. S. Li, Industrial Committee of the club; Miss Mayling Soong, publicity committee of the club; Dr. Siao, treasurer; Mrs. T. T. Wong, Mrs. K. H. Chen, Miss Chen Meiyu, Dr. Phoebe Stone, Mrs. Fong Sec, Mrs. H. C. Mei, and Miss Alice Tong, and other members.

Members of the committee having the campaign in charge will also be present.

The Strange Murder Mystery Which Has Aroused All Rome

In the Rome Court of Assizes a blind man is on trial for his life. The authorities declare that four years ago he murdered his wife. But for four years this blind man has amazingly defied the authorities to prove it.

Ignazio Mesones, the accused, is becoming the Landru of Italy, and the "Mystery of the Lungotevere Marzio," as Rome has called the case for four years, is developing into one of the strangest cases in criminal records.

The mystery was born before dawn January 4, 1918, when Emilio Metri, walking along the Lungotevere Marzio toward the Tiber, saw on the ground the dim outlines of a body. Approaching he discovered the form to be that of a young woman, prone on the cobblestones, her arms straight down at her sides. There was a hole in her temple, where the blood had clotted. By her side was a revolver, an umbrella and a purse. She had been dead for several hours.

The police discovered calling cards and letters in the woman's handbag, all in the name Maria Rotellini. There was no money in the purse and the girl was rather poorly dressed.

Two or three hotelkeepers in the neighborhood of the Lungotevere Marzio, which is not a good neighborhood at any hour of the day, identified the corpse as that of a girl from Udine, who had patronised their hotels during the three or four days before.

The girl was buried as a suicide.

At the time this obscure little tragedy was occurring, a wealthy Roman, the Commendatore Attilio Simonetti, and his wife began seeking their daughter Bice, who had brought a great sorrow into their lives. When she was 15 she had fallen under the spell of a strange man, Ignazio Mesones, half Peruvian, half Italian, who was then nearly 40 and who had come to live in their house to recover from a career of dissipation. This Mesones had moved in every circle of society, from the highest to the lowest, and had an ugly reputation. Even then he was going blind.

But the girl was fascinated. In later years her parents protested, as this fascination continued, but she was not to be influenced. Just before she became of age she risked her fortune and reputation and eloped with Mesones. Her parents then consented to their marriage.

It was bad enough for the Simonettis to see their daughter married to a blind man with not the best reputation, but the tragedy did not end there. Mesones, after his marriage, continued to see Maria de Angelis, who formerly had been associated with him. He openly taunted Bice with this woman's name, telling her he had only married her for her money. The bolder he became the more Bice became devoted to him. She obeyed her husband in even most minute things. Then, just before New Year's Day, 1918, she disappeared. Mesones went to her parents.

"Your daughter is a heartless creature," he said. "She has deserted me because I am blind and has gone to America with another."

He drew from his pocket a letter, written unmistakably by Bice and postmarked Naples. The letter confirmed what he had said. Later a Lieut. Barkero, a friend of Mesones, who had been in Naples, told them he had seen their daughter there in company with another man.

But the parents were haunted by the thought all was not as reported in their daughter's disappearance. "How could she make such a fool of herself over Mesones for seven years then leave him overnight?" they asked.

In July they succeeded in having Mesones taken before the police. He produced witnesses. Nothing could be proved against him. But the Commendatore still was suspicious. He offered a reward of 40,000 lire for information as to the whereabouts of his daughter. Nobody had information to furnish.

It was not until 1920 that a young private detective, Vittorio Pellegrini, while sitting in the office of Emilio Benucci, a friend of the blind man, heard him make casual reference to Bice Simonetti. Something in the way Benucci spoke was suspicious, Pellgrini, who had been working for some time on the case, thought deeply. The next time he saw his friend he suddenly produced a photograph of the young woman, whose body had been found by the police as mentioned above. The detective asked his acquaintance if he recognised in this portrait—the portrait of a dead person—the face of the missing girl.

"It's Bice Simonetti, without a doubt," said Benucci off his guard. He confessed that Maria de Angelis, the woman in whom Mesones was interested, had told him Mesones murdered his wife, whom he had in some mysterious way disguised so that as "Maria Rotellini" she would not be identified as Bice.

That was enough for the police. They exhumed the body of the supposed suicide and she was promptly identified as their daughter by the Simonettis. The police then reversed their suicide verdict and declared it probable Bice had been murdered where her body was discovered. The letter signed Rotellini, found in the handbag, was identified as being in Bice's handwriting, as also was the letter from Naples.

Bice had been murdered; that was clear. But by whom? Mesones had been totally blind many months. How could a blind man so expertly shoot a woman in the temple?

The police could not explain this, but they took Mesones to prison. A little later they arrested Maria de Angelis. For two years the authorities prepared their case.

Now Mesones and Maria de Angelis have been brought into court, with Lieut. Barbero and Benucci, suspected as accomplices.

Rome is intensely interested in the trial. Many women who remember the gallant, debonair Mesones of other days sympathise with him now that he is blind.

What could be more piquant, they ask, to minds weary of melodramatic movies than the romance of Mesones? A man of the world, with the tang of the adventurer, who went to Russia in 1909 and returned with the pockets full of rubles and diamonds; a wizard at cards; a man who could win any woman he pleased? Day after day in the crowded court room they see this man, who merely smiles at the revelations against him, who is never cornered by the most convincing evidence nor given pause by the most pitiless questions. And when the women meet outside the court room they say:

"They'll never convict Mesones," and there is hope in their voices. "He's too fine and clever for them, and how can they ever prove that a blind man could shoot with a revolver so unerringly?"

The men discuss the fine legal points of the trial.

Across the broad stone corridor of the Palazzo di Guisticia, where the trial is held, stretches a double line of swanky, blue clad soldiers. The little room soon is crowded and then none may pass the lines, but the corridors are filled all day with persons hoping to get in.

Mesones sits in a cage in the court room. There is something oddly childlike in the curve of his slight figure as he perches on the broad canvas steps of his cage. His shaven and well shaped head is gray.

In the corner of the cage, with her back to the audience, Maria sits, her head huddled into her furs. A most elaborate guard, in vermillion and black, with a long saber, keeps guard over these two interested listeners. The fat procurator general sits with his chin in his hands, his tasseled cap jocularly to one side. The president of the court, who resembles somewhat a nervous hawk, keeps the scarlet manteled clerk dashing here and there to keep order.

Mesones has come into court with one of the strongest cases possible against him and with only his blindness as a defense. Attorney Gregoriachi, for the State, is continually referring to Mesones's statements in jail. These are damaging.

On February 4, 1920, he said to one of the prison authorities:

"I felt toward Bice as if she were my sister, but for Maria I had a great passion. I wished to go away with her, but I had squandered my money. So I decided to marry Bice, who had promised me half her inheritance."

A year later he said, the police declare:

"It is true that I killed Bice with a revolver on the Lungotevere Marzio the night of January 3. While she was at my side I shot her through the temple. I felt her slipping to the ground. I heard a carriage coming. I threw beside her the revolver and her purse, which I had in my hands. Then I ran away. All the time I felt that I was doing the most natural thing in the world. I was completely blind at the time, but I did this without the help of any one."

There were other damaging statements. Confronted by them Mesones merely smiles and produces witnesses who say that he underwent periods of insanity in the prison in which he did not recognise his mother or his lawyer. He also has witnesses to testify that at least one "confession" was wrenched from him because he believed his mother had been arrested and would be convicted unless he could clear her. He even has letters written in prison to his mother on strips of cardboard to show how much he cared for her.

If Mesones's testimony has produced complication within complication, he has at least cleared up one mystery. He has explained how it was that Bice assumed the disguise as Maria Rotellini which kept him out of jail for two years after her murder. This revelation was one of the most startling of the whole trial.

He testified that Bice knew many women were enamored of him. This knowledge Mesones played upon. He finally persuaded Bice that Maria, at least, must be killed and that since he was blind she must commit the crime. He arranged with her the elaborate Rotellini disguise, which involved going about for three days from one cheap Rome hotel to another, that she might be seen in her disguise. He even persuaded her to turn over to him the legal administration of her affairs—"in case of accident."

At the very time the gently born Bice began her strange masquerade Maria was enjoying the Riviera.

Maria de Angelis was a sorry witness when she came out of her cage, with bent head, to the witness stand. From the time she was 13 she had been an adventuress. Her only redeeming feature seemed to be her love for her little son Giacomino. She was compelled to admit she had slapped Bice on the cheek as the latter came out of the church on her wedding day.

The day of Maria's testimony struck one of the dramatic notes of the trial. Hatreds snarled out in open court. Faced with Benucci, Maria sneered at him, as had the State's lawyer, who called him a "sack of mud." She accused Benucci of trying to extort money from Mesones and herself. Benucci accused her of betraying him.

Little Stella Ianella, the girl who guided the blind Mesones about the streets, testified that she first saw him when she was 12 years old and was helping her mother in a tobacco shop near St. Peter's. Mesones was not blind then. Two or three years later he came to her mother's shop with Maria. Then in the fall of 1917 she saw him with another woman, who, he said, was his wife.

After Bice's disappearance Stella said that Mesones gave her a wedd-

Archeologist's Pick Soon To Invade Caesar's Camps

The archeologist's pick is continually making its way into the past and bringing to light the works and ways of the ancients. Among the most interesting points of attack just before the war was Alesia, the Gallic stronghold where Vercingetorix made his last stand against Julius Caesar. The work, arduous and extensive, was undertaken by a French historial association and was interrupted by the war. It is hoped, however, to resume this work in due course.

For many centuries the site of Alesia was uncertain. All questions in regard to its locality, however, were set at rest by Napoleon III., who made excavations in a plain just beneath the plateau of Mont-Auxois, not far from Dijon. Relying on an old monkish narrative and the Commentaries of Caesar, Napoleon searched for traces of Caesar's siege works and found them just where the records said they were and in just the form described. He also found the places where Caesar had stabled his horses, close to the river. Even in their smallest detail the remains tallied so exactly with the record that there could be no doubt as to the situation of Alesia.

Though Napoleon III. unearthed Caesar's camp in the plain, he left the top of Mont-Auxois untouched, and it is there the Semur Archeological Society began its work. Today the entire plateau is covered with cornfields and potato patches. Beneath, to be revealed, one may picture a Gallo-Roman oppidum, with its temples, its theaters, its baths, its palaces, its amphitheater and its forum.

There are evidences to prove that the dream of the archeologist is founded on fact. Heaps of coins, gold, silver and copper, have been accidentally unearthed on top of Mont-Auxois. Jewels, weapons, bronzes, significant inscriptions—one in pure Latin, dating from the first century—have been discovered.

One September a congress of archeologists and historians assembled at Alise. To impress them with the importance of the forthcoming excavations the superintendent of Napoleon's operations had several trenches dug, absolutely at random, in the cornfields. One of these trenches land bare the porch of a Roman theater. A shallow ditch, nowhere more than a yard deep, was made clear across the plateau. This brought to light walls, wells, pavements, to say nothing of medallions, pottery and fragments of statuary.

It is not merely to recover lost vestiges of Roman Gaul that Mont-Auxois will eventually be explored. The French archeologists look for remains of a pre-Roman Alesia. A legend makes Hercules the founder of the ancient city. Students connect it with Phoenician settlers one thousand years before the Christian era. Older still, the name is traced to an Iberian source.

Mrs. Malaprop is not dead yet. In a London drawing-room, during a lull in the general conversation, a woman was heard to appeal dramatically to her hostess on the subject of some person under discussion:

"My dear, how could you possibly expect anything else of him? Can the leper change his spots?"

With some presence of mind, the hostess murmured that she supposed he couldn't.

"We have never had a perfect Government, nor have I ever seen a perfect man," a political speaker once said. "Has anyone ever heard of a perfect woman?"

A chubby-faced woman got up. "Yes," she said, "I have often heard of her. But she's dead now; she was my husband's first wife."

ANYTHING CAN DO

"'Cold water is the best of drinks,' the temperance poet sings;
But who am I that I should have the very best of things?
Let princes revel at the pump,
and kings delight in tea,
But whisky, wine, or even beer
are good enough for me."

BEST—AND WORST!

Husbands—and wives also, for that matter—are frequently "classified" according to their various characteristics, and a short while ago women were advised not to marry men with blue eyes. Now the Rev. W. M. Scott, of Dundee, is classifying husbands according to their professions.

According to him, clergymen make the most desirable husbands. (He is a clergyman himself, so he should know.) Business men also come high in his list, but he designates them as "less desirable."

After business men he places Army and Navy officers, professors, and teachers.

Then come authors and journalists, who are unsatisfactory, and at the bottom of the matrimonial ladder we find artists. The comment on them is, "Quite hopeless."

These conclusions are based on statistics—but even statistics sometimes lie!

THE WISHING-GATE

The Worldling, pining to be freed
From turmoil, who would turn or speed
The current of his fate,
Might stop before this favored scene,
At Nature's call, nor blush to lean
Upon the Washing-gate.

The Sage, who feels how blind, how weak
Is man, though loth such help to seek,
Yet, passing, here might pause,
And thirst for insight to allay
Misgiving, while the crimson day
In quietness withdraws;

Or when the church-clock's knell profound
To Time's first step across the bound
Of midnight makes reply;
Time pressing on with starry crest,
To filial sleep upon the breast
Of dread eternity.

The Week's Market Report

In their weekly report on the Shanghai piece goods trade, Messrs. Noel, Murray and Company write as follows:

Cotton.—The steady advance in prices continues and Spot Liverpool yesterday was quoted at 13.66d. the forward rates being 13.41d. for July and 13.05d. for October. Indian cottons are higher in Bombay at Rs. 385 for F. G. Bengals, Rs. 459 for Fine Oomras and Rs. 523 for F. G. Broach. Spot cotton is up to 23 cents in New York, 22.47 for July, 22.42 for October, 22.25 for December, 22.15 for January and 22.04 cents for March, 1923. It is evident from this rise that the weather conditions have not been favorable in the cotton belt.

Home Market.—Hornby's 8¼ lb. Shirtings have been advanced 3d. to 16s. 6d. and Calvert's 10 lb. Shirtings 1s. 9d. to 22s. 3d. per piece. The Manchester market generally is firmer with the rise in cotton, the increase in prices being about 10 percent. We fancy this market is standing still contentedly.

Local Market.—The dealers continue to clear off their former purchases and should soon be in a position to require more. The chief feature in the market is the demand that is springing up in Newchwang for Jeans; this is rather ahead of ordinary custom but is no doubt accounted for by the fact that stocks there are depleted and hunger is manifesting itself accordingly.

Harvests in most places are promising and so far, weather conditions this season have been extremely favorable for the farmers; a fair tea and silk business has been done and on the whole the economic conditions of the country would appear to be improving. There is still a considerable portion of the unwanted legacy of 1919-1920 remaining on this market and from time to time it comes into evidence and until the whole of it goes into consumption it must always be an incubus; it is to be hoped therefore that when the Autumn trade begins, an opportunity many present itself to liquidate this malodorous cargo.

Financial.—Again there has been a slight increase to local stocks of silver; Sycee and bars now total Tls. 24,485,000 and Dollars 30,550,000 of which sums the native banks hold Tls. 4,690,000 and $19,150,300.

Yarn.—Not much business has been done, but we hear today about 500 bales of Indian 10's have been disposed of and some inquiry for Local Counts has begun; of these 3,300 bales are reported as sold and the retailers have taken 4,200 bales for their trade. We also have details of 300 bales of Japanese yarn which has been sold.

Auctions.—The program this week was rather a big one and the total number pieces sold by auction was 59,560, but as usual when quantities are increased, prices suffered somewhat. Of Greys, heavies are in most demand. Whites are a bit sticky and declined one to two mace. T-Cloths and Jeans were about steady, Turkey Reds uneven. Velvets and Lawns were again stronger. Fast Black Italians went both ways, but we do not discover any great weakness in them. Venetians fairly steady. Deliveries continue to be satisfactory.

ROSENFELD REPORT

In their weekly report on the Shanghai cotton market, Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son write as follows:

China Cotton.—The market during the past week was again lifeless and the net change in values has been insignificant. Nearly all the business was done in the exchanges and no straight buying or selling has been reported.

Regarding the crop outlook throughout the principal growing centers, we again have the pleasure of reporting still another favorable week for the progress of the crop. The "tap root" is well down in the soil, which is generally considered a favorable sign, and the farmers are satisfied with the prevailing conditions.

As to the future course of the market, it will continue to be governed by the future outlook of the world markets, and chiefly by the progress of the crops. The critical months of July and August are still ahead of us, and the trade's attention will be centered not only on weather conditions, but also on possble damage from insects, bollweevil, etc. While the technical position of the market may offer opportunities for occasional scalping operations the progress of the crops in the American, Indian and the China cotton belts (and the peace possibilities) will continue to be the chief basis for important price changes. Mid-American have again made a new high level for the year, spot cotton having touched gold cents 23.30.

Yarn:—Since our last, the market has been keeping steady. The firmness of Sampin makes the yarn market firm, and at the close, the market continues to show a steady undertone. Some 3,000 bales direct business with the Mills has been recorded and some 13,000 to 14,000 bales export business has been booked at prevailing rates.

SPUNT AND COMPANY

Messrs. J. Spunt and Company write as follows in their report on the cotton market.

China Cotton.—Our market during the past week has in no way showed any marked changes when compared with that of the previous period, and prices, though very little business was transacted, evinced firmness whenever any tentative demand arose, thus indicating that the situation here is being influenced in no small degree by the rising tendency in both the American and Indian markets.

The Yarn market continuing in a depressed state naturally represses spinners from taking any interest, for the time being, in whatever offerings that are now and then submitted at favorable rates, but of which it would be advisable to take advantage as the general outlook for the new season's crop in the cotton belt of the world is not bright enough to ensure a sufficiency of the fibre to meet the requirements of the world's spindleage. Tone of the market, Firm.

HAIRNET

Messrs. Yannoulatos Bros (China) have received the following report from their Chefoo office on the hairnet market:

The hairnet market has been decidedly firm during the week. Most of the stocks are now in the hands of speculators who are holding back anticipating higher prices in the near future.

There is always a small but regular demand for double nets from America and for singles from the European markets.

SILK PONGEE

The China Merchants Pongee Association have received the following report from their Chefoo office on the Pongee market:

The market has been quiet during the week.

Inquiries have been received from America and France but their limits are still too low to permit business. An improvement is reported in the New York market with an increased demand for both Shantungs and Ninghais. The Spring Cocoon crop in Shantung has been a failure. Decease of the silk worms and the rains are again as the causes of this Spring's failure.

LACES

The Lace market has been weaker since our last report. First quality goods in assorted patterns are being offered at 1.5 to 1.5½ per hole. Rose pattern and 6 hole Picot are a little dearer, however, the former being quoted at 1.6½ to 1.7 per hole and the latter at 10 cents per yard for 11 holes and up to the inch. The market is quiet and no business of great importance is reported. Irish Crochet Laces are still weak with practically no business.

JUTE FABRICS

Mr. J. A. Fredericks writes as follows in his report on the jute fabrics.

Heavy C's 2¼ lbs. bluestripe continue steady @ Tls. 170 with stocks very low and Calcutta prices, about 12 percent higher. Heavy C's 2½ lbs. greenstripe are gradually sagging down and are now weak at Tls. 205—about cost at port of shipment.

Hessians have been done at advancing rates—95, 97, 98, 100 and 102 the principal improvement taking place within the last 48 hours when a demand in small lots for spot cargo sprang up which had the effect of hardening prices.

The Strange Murder Mystery Which Has Aroused All Rome

ing ring, some bracelets and several documents to keep for him.

"Didn't you suspect anything when you saw the wedding ring?" asked Gregoriachi.

"I was only a child, I didn't understand those things," she said.

Stella testified that Mesones had wanted to marry her. When she asked him about his wife he said: "Oh, I'll get a divorce."

She made an important statement when she tesified that after she had seen Mesones talking to a group of rough looking men he had said to her: "Those men would kill a person for a hundred lire."

The dramatic moment in her testimony came when Stella was faced with the evidence of the woman superintendent of the building in which she lives with her mother that upon the arrest of Mesones in 1920 Stella had told her she knew all the details of the murder and had proceeded to describe them before they had been published.

The police officers, Costa and Cannada, had overheard this recital.

Stella became very nervous, tearing her hat to pieces between nervous little fingers. Suddenly she fainted, after crying out that Mesones's friends had tortured her.

Georgette Mendoca, daughter of a prominent family, was a more attractive witness—slim, blonde, dressed in an expensive tailleur with fur at neck and cuff. She spoke in low, well modulated tones that revealed her aristocratic breeding. She took the judge's jokes at the artificiality of her blond hair cheerfully.

For a year and a half, she said, she had known the Lieutenant Barbero, and also had known Mesones and Bice. The four used to have dinner together in the Restaurant Romoletto. New Year's Eve they went to Mesones's house for something to drink and missed Bice. Georgette said she thought it was strange for her friend to go away without saying farewell to anybody, but she believed Mesones's declaration that Bice had disappeared. Later she confessed to accepting some of Bice's clothes as a present from Mesones, even a white fox fur, of which Bice had been very fond.

Everybody leaned forward when Georgette described going to the station with Mesones and Barbero, when the latter was leaving for his home in Sicily. Mesones gave Barbero a letter to post in Naples, but Georgette declared that she did not know its contents. The State declares this was the letter supposed to have been mailed by Bice. She held out stoutly against attempts of the prosecution to wring from her the names of her father and mother. She would only say what was apparent, that her family was of the nobility.

Then the prosecution played a strong card. It produced a man who was believed to have been almost an eyewitness to the murder on the Lungotevere Marzio. This man, Andrea Buratti, testified that he had seen a girl walking toward the Tiber the night of January 3, and that soon after she turned the corner he heard a pistol shot. He rushed to the spot, saw the body lying on the ground and two men and a woman running up the steps from the river, as if they might have shot her from the ambush of the river wall, and were escaping.

Then the defense produced physicians' reports to show that this witness was epileptic.

Most of the evicence sheers away from Mesones's bent head in the same startling way. He himself cheerfully winds up the mazes into even worse knots. One day he will say that his theory of the case is that Bice shot herself because she was desperately jealous of Maria. The next he amazes his audience by declaring solemnly:

"Sometimes I think that Bice is not dead at all. I believe this is all a plot against me. How can I, a blind man, know that Rotellini was really my wife?" And as the audience shivers, he repeats, "No. Sometimes I think Bice will come back and show us that this whole trial is a silly nightmare."

Rome has not had such an interesting or dramatic murder mystery in many years. There pass in review during each day so many phases of the mysterious life of the "other half," with its loves and jealousies and beautiful women. Rome loves the very memory of the little wife whose specter inhabits the court room day after day—yet so many of the women of Rome secretly hope Mesones will go free.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have paregoric or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a few drops too many will produce the sleep from which there is no waking. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children unless you or your physician know of what it is composed. Castoria does not contain narcotics.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have frequently prescribed Castoria for common ailments of children with good results." W. A. CRANDALL, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

"I find your Castoria is very beneficial in the treatment of children's ailments." P. DAVIS, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

"As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine and, aside from my own family experience, I have, in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home." WM. J. MCCRANN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"I object to what are called patent medicines, where the maker alone knows what stuff is put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use in proper cases. I judge it to be a very useful, as well as harmless family medicine." N. B. SIXBY, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Kansu Farmers Are Worried By Drought

(China Press Correspondence)

Kuyuan, Kansu, June 7.—There has been a fairly long drought in this district which is making both officials and people apprehensive regarding their future. The magistrate is daily prostrating himself in the City Temple imploring the City God to send the much-needed rain. He is trying all kinds of methods in order to get a down-pour, but to no avail.

The other day, he and the gentry went to a certain hill around here where there is a spring of water to pray for rain. He walked the entire distance, a pretty good feat for a man of his way of living. When visiting in the immediate neighborhood at other times, sometimes only a block away from the yamen, he has to ride in his cart escorted by a cavalcade of horsemen armed to the teeth. This was quite a bit of humility on his part and it took considerable courage to dare to walk into the country to the spring.

Surely, rain is wanted and needed. The crops are fading away, and there is fear of a famine stalking in the people's minds if the wheat and other foodstuffs are spoiled. Prices on all eatables are "sky-high" now, and the poorer ones are beginning to feel the "pinch."

The magistrate has promised rain by the 13th of the Chinese month, and if it doesn't come then, it will pour on the 18th. Failing to rain on the 18th he can promise nothing more. No slaughtering of animals has been allowed for over a week now, as well as the prohibition of drinking wine and eating garlic and other bitter vegetables. As soon as the drought has been broken then the people will be permitted to drink wine and eat all the garlic they want.

NOTICE

The presence in the French Concession of wandering dogs constitutes, at this time of the year, a particularly grave danger. Many cases of hydrophobia have been notified.

In these circumstances special intructions have been given to the Police to organize, as from today, battues in which all ownerless dogs found in the streets of the Concession will be, if it is possible, taken and put in pound, or, if not, killed on the spot.

Residents in the French Concession, who will certainly appreciate the imperative necessity of this measure, are asked to take care that their dogs are not allowed out without muzzles.

They will also render a great service to the community if they will notify the Police or Sanitary Department of all cases of the death of suspected dogs occuring at their houses or in the neighbourhood.

Consul General de France.

THE LANTZOFFS

Ah! That Nifty Dancerina!
And her equally-live Side-kick!

And as for character-dancing allow us to introduce

GREE-GREE

As for Billee Powers,

gosh, but can't he and his demon musicians do their stuff? Well, well.

No Reservations. Come first, sit first.

Show starts at 10.30 pronto. Things are starting earlier these days, so the folks'll have a chance to get nearly enough.

To be Reckoned with
—The w.k. Egges and Hamme,
—The w.k. Club Sandwich So fashion. Three stories high, Bakerite toast, hot bacon, cold chicken and a lil old dill pickle on top—with real home-grown lettuce in between the "on top" and the "lil old" —and mayonnaise. O-o-h Hot Dog!

Changshu, Ku., June 22.—The American Chuch Mission has recently acquired three new pieces of property for a hospital, boys' school, and a missionary residence. The new church is ready for the roof, and the hospital buildings for both the clinic and the in-patient work is well under way. The residence for Dr. W. H. Pott will soon be ready for the roof.

A dinner was recently given at which a number of the prominent gentlemen of the city were present and expressed their interest in the work of the mission and of the new enterprises that are just started.

Peking, June 20.—According to a semi-official report Admiral Sah Chen-ping will shortly go to Fukien on a tour of inspection which will probably be followed by his appointment as Civil-Governor of that province, and the abolition of the Tuchunate.

It is expected that Admiral Sah will make drastic changes in the administration of Fukien, which has left much to be desired in recent years.

The Hague, June 22.—The First Chamber elections resulted in a debacle for the Left parties which lost eight seats. The position now is Right 41, Left 9.

The Socialists, M. Polak, president of the Dutch Diamond Workers' League, and M. Vankal were among those who lost their seats.

BOGUS COPPERS

(China Press Correspondence)

Kuyuan, Kansu, June 9.—We shall soon be having counterfeit 10 cash pieces thrust upon us both from Lanchow and another city, as the "ma-ch'ien" are being bought by the hundred thousand to be sent to the "mint" where they are melted and formed into coppers.

Somebody is going to make a big profit on this illicit business. The people don't like these new coppers as they are yellow instead of red and of lightweight in addition. But they will have to take them and shut up.
